THURSDAY was the festival of Corpus Christi usually observed in Roman Catholic countries with much religious ceremony. Masses were said at the Roman Catholic Cathedral here, but in order to avoid any interference with the business traffic in the streets, the Procession of the Host, which should have been the characteristic ceremony o the day has been postponed until to-morrow. This procession of ecclesiastics and worshippers will pass through the principal streets of the city. At the last meeting of the Cousins' Society the annual election of officers took place with the following result :- President, Dr. J. M. Whitney : vice-president, Mr. J. B. Atherton; secretary, Mr. Oscar White; foreign corresponding secretary,

Miss M. A. Chamberlain; home corresponding secretary, Mrs. Benfield; treasurer, Mr. Hall ; elective members of the Board, Mrs. C. M. Hyde and Mr. F. W. Damon. MR. A. W. Bush has imported some splendid pumpkins from New Zealand, a number of which were arranged in front of his store on Fort Street, vesterday afternoon and attracted a good deal of attention. It seems very strange that we should have to send 4000 miles for supplies of a vegetable which ought to grow here like a weed. The fact is but another instance of the way in which almost all of what should be the minor industries of the country are neglected. LARGE advantage was taken on Saturday and Sunday of Captain Hope's politeness in throwing open H. B. M. S. Champion to visitors. The ship well repays inspection. Among the peculiarities of her construction the most important is the steel deck which occupies a position about 3 feet 6 in-ches below the waterline. This is relied on as be-ing shell-proof, and below it are the machinery and boilers and the magazines, so that all the vital parts of the ship are protected. The ship is divided into no less than 102 cellular compartments each

WRAY TAYLOR gave the fifth of a series of free Organ Recitals in St. Andrew's Pro-Cathedral Tuesday evening, Mr. Taylor was assisted on this occasion by Their Royal Highnesses the Princesses Liliuokalani and Likelike, who sang as a duet, the "Evening Song to the Virgin," (Hemans). Princess Liliuokalani also sang as a solo Holden's "Nearer My God to Thee." Mr. A. T. Atkinson was to have contributed some organ music, but was unable to be present. Mr. Taylor's selections for the occasion included some choice music, which was rendered with more than his usual skill and feeling. The following is a list of those pieces:-Smart's Festival March in D. one of Mendelssohn's Songs without Words, an Andante in C, by Silas, a Pastorale by Best, Batiste's Offertoire in D. minor, Sicilian Mariners' tune with variations by Thayer, and a Fantasie in C. major by Tours. MR. SMITHIES and Mr. Hassinger visited the steamer Monarch yesterday and in their presence the roll of the immigrants was called. Princess Likelike and Hon. Mr. Cleghorn, Major Wodehouse, British Commissioner and Mrs. Wode house. The Royal Hawaiian Band was on board and a great part of the afternoon was, by the younger guests and officers of the ship, devoted to dancing, which was carried on with great spirit. Some torpedoes, on a small scale, were exploded as close to the ship as prudence allowed, and proved great objects of attraction to those from shore, many of whom saw the effects of one of these modern implements of warfare for the first time. For some hours the ship presented a gay and animated scene, amidst which all present enjoyed themselves exceedingly; the kind and unaffected hospitality of Captain Hope and his officers causing all to feel at home on board, and quite reluctant to believe the fact when the hour for going ashore arrived. he had an incurable disease, and would be better to be dead. Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock, he was found by Kahue hanging in the little apartment screened off from the horse shed in which he had been living. William Sea who was informed of the suicide by children, immediately after the discovery by Appo, testified that the man was cold and stiff then, and his eyes and mouth full of ants, showing that he had been dead some time. This fact was the excuse given for leaving the remains of the unfortunate man hanging where found, a spectacle visited during the day by crowds. It ap-any account. Some native police saw the man

A MATCH was played last Saturday, at Makiki between an eleven from H.B.M.S. Champion and the first eleven of the Honolulu Cricket Club. The victory was with the local players, as ha hitherto been usual in their contests with naval ams, who are generally weak in the matter of box ing, and have of course, only the most occasional opportu-nities of practice. The score of the game is ap-pended. No official record of the bowling was kept but that given below for the Champion's bowlers was taken by a member of the Cricket Club, and is believed to be nearly rect. Lieutenant Browne aptained the Champion's team, and C. E. Perry

Later she appeared, and proved herself to be an artiste of inusual intelligence by her excellent delivery of Dessaner's song "To Sevilla." Of the flute play ing by Mr. Schade we must speak in the highest terms. Such execution we have never heard be fore. The performance of a fantasia on "La Sonnambula." by Tershack, exhibited a limitless the place where the man hung from the rest of the execution, together with a clear pure tone and a wonderful retention of breath. Mr. Isidor Schnitzler played a violin solo on "Gipsy Airs." by Sarasate, and displayed brilliant technique and grand quality of tone. His execution and dexterity are certainly wonderful, and his management of the harmonics most accurate, and clearly defined. In response to a recall he played "St. Patrick's Day." The second part opened with a clarionet solo by Mr. Thomas Ryan, the only original member of the club. This gentleman is a genuine and thorough artist, and managed his fine instrument with great skill and tact, producing the sweetest of tones. In response to an encore he played "Robin Adair." In Mr. Frederick Giese we heard a violoncellist of the first rank, whose execution was simply marvellous. He touched scarcely a note that was not of poetic feeling. His tone is rich and delicate, and his bowing very graceful. He

The Mendelssohn Quintette Club. The inhabitants of Honolulu had a very unusual treat provided for them on Monday night last. The steamer from Australia did not arrive till late in the afternoon, which gave the members of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club the opportunity of giving a concert. We need hardly say that they were rewarded by a full house, which represented on the performance for the benefit of those who The first number on the richly compiled programme was Mendelssohn Quintette in B flat, which was played with exquisite taste, and with an evenness that gave the idea of one rather than five instruments being heard. Through out the evening the reputation of the clib various numbers was exceedingly careful, the ensemble admirable, and a degree of fervor infused into the different numbers which caused them to glow with warmth and color. But especially must we speak of the "Farranto Minnetto," by Boc cherini, played with muted instruments, and which was simply perfection, and most undoubtedly the
